

Bias Detection Report

This is a report introduction. The bias type is Distribution, the relevant feature is education, and the bias level is Extreme Bias.

The distribution of education levels is heavily skewed, with some categories having a much higher frequency than others. This suggests that there may be some underlying issues with the data collection process or the population being studied.